

WHITE HOUSE TO FIGHT BACK AGAINST SENATE ATTACK ON OFFICIALS

Coolidge Will Abandon Policy of Passive Silence in Face
Of Democratic Offensive Against Cabinet Officers.

Washington, April 14.—The policy of passive silence and non-resistance in the face of Democratic attacks on cabinet officers and the administration generally, which the administration has observed since the "scandal era" in Washington began several months ago, was tossed into the discard today.

It was decided at the White House that hereafter a spirited defense will be made in the senate to any and all attacks made against government officials.

The main features of the administration's program of "fighting back" was agreed upon today at an hour's conference between President Coolidge, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, the latest cabinet officer to be shelled, and Senator James E. Watson, Republican of Indiana, who will act as chief spokesman in the senate for the administration.

The stormy session of the senate on Saturday in which President Coolidge was accused of trying to throttle all of the senate investigations, and Senator Reed, Democrat of Missouri, introduced a resolution to expunge from the record Mr. Coolidge's communication exhorting the senate to return to its legislative functions, was responsible for the decision reached at the White House.

The president apparently has decided that meekness and silence in the face of attack has ceased to be a virtue, and is conducive only to increased attacks. Consequently he called Senator Watson to the White House today to canvass the situation.

The Republicans of the senate, at least the "regulars" will oppose with every power at their command the employment of Francis J. Heney, of San Francisco, as a special counsel to conduct the present investigation into the bureau of internal revenue, irrespective of whether Heney is to be paid by Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, or by the senate itself.

The employment of Heney was suggested to Couzens by Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

It is understood that Secretary Mellon had informed the president at their morning conference that he believed Governor Pinchot's interference in the matter was inspired by the political differences they have long had in Pennsylvania politics. Mr. Mellon told the president, it was said, that he had no objections to an investigation of his department that "aimed at constructive ends," but he was strongly averse to being investigated by private individuals whom he believed were bent on making political capital out of it.

Mellon further informed Mr. Coolidge, it is said, that he cannot be responsible for the efficiency of the bureau as outlined by Governor Pinchot and conducted by Heney is permitted to go on.

Senator Watson said after leaving the White House that if he made any reply to Governor Pinchot it would be from the senate floor.

Pinchot, in a statement last night, admitted that suggesting the employment of Heney and "deploring the spectacle of a U. S. Senator (Watson) publicly confessing that he does not expect the constitution to be obeyed." This referred to Watson's remark that no one could expect the prohibition law to be enforced absolutely.

"There is no need to reply to Governor Pinchot at this time," said Senator Watson. "I only wanted to show that he was behind the move to employ Heney and he has now admitted that. In regard to Pinchot's attack on my statement that the prohibition law wasn't being enforced, I didn't say the law could not be enforced; I said it was not, and certainly Governor Pinchot will have to admit that."

Paris, April 14.—Lieutenant Osborne Wood, U. S. A. son of General Leonard Wood, governor of the Philippine Islands, became plain "Mr. Wood" at 11 o'clock today when his resignation from the service became effective. There was a simple half hour ceremony at the United States embassy.

"Is it true you made $800,000 in Wall street?" Wood was asked. "It may be true and it may not. But if I were broke I would not be getting out of the army. I expect to leave the Hotel Crillon in a few days and move into a villa we have rented at Saint Cloud, where, with my wife and son, I expect to stay until August or September, putting in the summer studying French and brushing up for the diplomatic service examinations. I hope to take the diplomatic examination in the autumn."

THAW BEGINS SECOND FIGHT FOR RELEASE AFTER 14 YEARS IN PRISON

Philadelphia, April 14.—Evelyn Nesbit, cabaret entertainer and divorced wife of Harry K. Thaw, entered the ranks of those opposing Thaw's release from an asylum here, when Judge Monaghan, at the opening of the trial in common pleas court today granted her petition to become party defendant in behalf of her son, Russell William Thaw.

Harry K. Thaw was an interested spectator in court this morning when a jury of 12 men, two of them colored—were chosen to try his sanity, plea.

Known by a few newspapermen, lawyers and court attaché, the slayer of Stanford White, guarded by two suave looking asylum guards, seated himself among the spectators in the front of the room when court opened at 10 o'clock and later moved his seat further back.

When court adjourned at 12:35 o'clock, Thaw still in the company of his guards, went to luncheon with his counsel and the alienists who will testify in his behalf.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 14.—After over fourteen years of life in insane asylums, broken only by a two-year interlude of liberty and period "vacations" at the home of his aged mother, Harry K. Thaw, 43, slayer of Stanford White, and now a millionaire today began his second fight for freedom before a judge and jury in Common Pleas Court number five.

Thaw contends he has recovered his sanity and five specialists chosen by his counsel will testify that he is fit for release from the Pennsylvania Hospital for mental and nervous diseases and qualified to assume control of his estate estimated from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000.

Opposition to Thaw's release has developed from two of the trustees of the Thaw estate—Howard Irish and Dr. Walter Riddle, both of Pittsburgh.

The third trustee is Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, Harry's aged mother, who sustains him in his sanity plea.

GREECE TAKES PL ACE AMONG NEW REPUBLICS A FTER PLEBISCITE

London, April 14.—Admiral Condur-lotis, regent of Greece, has been proclaimed provisional president of the new Greek republic, according to a Central News dispatch from Athens this afternoon. The national assembly will elect a senate and then both bodies will elect a permanent president.

The dispatch added that General Pangalos will conduct a campaign against brigandage in Greece.

Athens, April 14.—While early returns from the provinces showed much royalist strength, tabulation of practically the whole vote today showed that the Republicans received 75 per cent of the ballots cast in Sunday's plebiscite. Greece thus takes her place among the new republics that have sprung up in Europe since the great war.

It was stated that out of approximately 200,000 votes cast, the Republicans received about 150,000. When these figures were published, the entire vote had not been counted.

The polling was generally quiet, although in some districts Republicans made noisy demonstrations. Republican leaders claimed they would control seven tenths of the seats in the new assembly.

D. A. R. PRESIDENT APPEALS FOR LAW OBSERVANCE IN U. S.

Washington, April 14.—In an address at the opening session of the thirty-third continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, president-general of the society, appealed today for law observance and faith in government and pointing to recent "grave breaches of trust" among public officials, suggested that the national destiny requires an appraisal of our integrity.

The laws of the United States, Mrs. Cook said, are "more or less imperfect copies of eternal laws."

"If we are to enjoy security of our persons and our property, we must submit to authority with its abridgment of our freedom of action. It is unthinkable that any American would exchange the restraint of law for the freedom of anarchy."

Mrs. Cook expressed some concern, "because leagues, blocs, special pleadings and propaganda," were swaying congress and the state legislatures.

At the session tonight, addresses will be delivered by President Coolidge, Jules Jusserand, the French ambassador and Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador.

Crist's ruling was in response to a request of Secretary of Labor Davis for information regarding the present status of Bergdoll.

The ruling set forth that under the revised statutes as amended, any citizen, who deserts the military or naval service, or who goes beyond the limits of the United States with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service, is deemed to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited his rights to citizenship.

Responding to Davis' inquiry as to whether the commissioner of naturalization was aware of any act of Bergdoll's part, which may have rendered him an expatriate, Crist said:

"There is a distinction that may be made between the forfeiture of citizenship and the forfeiture of the rights of citizenship, although forever barring from the privilege of exercising any rights of citizenship, still may probably occur without expatriation. The rights of citizenship may be restored by pardon by the chief executive under certain conditions. By the act of March 2, 1907, an American citizen is deemed to have expatriated himself when he has been naturalized in a foreign country in conformity with its laws. He can only have his status as an American citizen reinstated by conformity with the naturalization laws applicable to his particular case. An American citizen who voluntarily relinquished and forfeited his right of citizenship could be very properly be excluded from entry into the United States and on entry unlawfully could be in all likelihood be deported for coming into the United States without permission.

Several others were in the room but at latest reports they were living, but in a critical condition.

Failure to return home caused a search to be instituted which led to a wine cellar with a narrow opening. Gas fumes forced rescuers back and Steubenville firemen with oxygen helmets responded.

RUSSIA WOULD FAVOR GENERAL DISARMAMENT

Delegate to Conference
Tells England of Soviet Aims.

London, April 14.—M. Rakovsky, head of the Russian delegation, attending the Anglo-Russian treaty conference, in replying to Premier Ramsay MacDonald's speech of welcome today, intimated that soviet Russia would welcome general disarmament proposals.

Premier MacDonald, in opening the conference, said:

"This parity does not affect Great Britain's recognition of the soviet which has gone a long way in liquidating past differences and making for peaceful relations in the future."

The conference opened at the foreign office just before noon with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, presiding. England had given de jure recognition to the soviets with many contentions still hanging fire.

DESTROYERS WILL AID WORLD FLIERS

Washington, April 14.—The army round-the-world fliers, now at Seward, Alaska, are to be aided by a flotilla of destroyers stationed at strategic points along the route under orders issued today by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

Two destroyers with gasoline supplies were detailed to the Kurile islands; other vessels were ordered to patrol the passage across the Yellow sea from Kagoshima down to Shanghai and thence to Calcutta; and four destroyers were detailed to assist in the passage across the North Atlantic.

BERGDOLL, MILLIONAIRE DRAFT DODGER NO LONGER CITIZEN OF U. S. OFFICIAL DECLARES

Washington, April 14.—Grove Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire draft dodger, voluntarily relinquished and forfeited his rights of citizenship when he fled the country after his conviction by court martial of evading the draft, according to a ruling made today by Raymond F. Crist, commissioner of naturalization.

Bergdoll is forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under the United States or of exercising any rights of citizenship," Crist ruled.

Crist's ruling was in response to a request of Secretary of Labor Davis for information regarding the present status of Bergdoll.

The ruling set forth that under the revised statutes as amended, any citizen, who deserts the military or naval service, or who goes beyond the limits of the United States with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service, is deemed to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited his rights to citizenship.

Responding to Davis' inquiry as to whether the commissioner of naturalization was aware of any act of Bergdoll's part, which may have rendered him an expatriate, Crist said:

SENATE TO BE REQUESTED TO STRIKE BANKER

Brother of Former Attorney General Object Of Attack

Washington, April 14.—A formal request upon the senate to institute contempt proceedings against Mal S. Daugherty, brother of the former attorney general, was prepared today at a secret session of the Wheeler-Brookhart committee.

Public hearings were postponed until tomorrow while the committee deliberated action against Daugherty for his defiance of a subpoena issued at Washington Court House, Ohio, and his refusal to produce records from the Midland National Bank there of which he is president. The committee also considered the question of asking the senate to order his immediate arrest and deliverance to the sergeant at arms custody until the books are produced.

Senators Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, chairman, and Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, acting "prosecutor" whose activities at the Ohio town were halted by a temporary injunction demanded that every possible step be taken to compel Daugherty to produce his bank's records. They told the remaining members of the committee that evidence was volunteered by a special investigator who visited the bank, that Harry M. Daugherty had made a deposit of $75,000 in the bank and Jess W. Smith, his late chum, a deposit of $63,000. The senators maintained the two deposits should be thoroughly investigated and all records of the bank searched for further deposits by these two principals.

At the same time, the special committee, headed by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, prepared to open a "public trial" of Senator Wheeler late this week to investigate an indictment returned against Wheeler by a federal grand jury in Montana.

This indictment also was under investigation by Harland Fiske Stone, the new attorney general. It was said that Stone ordered all records of the Montana grand jury forwarded to Washington so that he could personally examine the case and the grand jury's verdict. This action, reports indicated, was taken at the request of President Coolidge.

All witnesses, who appeared before the grand jury have been subpoenaed by the Borah committee. They will repeat the evidence given at Great Falls, during public session of the committee.

Columbus, April 14.—Blinking lights at night sometimes a red and a white, sometimes two whites and a red, and again one red in the window of an apartment on Chittenden Avenue, here interested the police of the district for several weeks. They watched the lights and the apartment.

Today the police have 236 quarts of Black and White whiskey as a result, and Jacob Gunter, Peter J. Glassman, Nathan Levi, are under bonds pending trial on charges of illegal possession of liquor. A touring car is also being held by police.

Glassman admitted that the whiskey belonged to him, police said. The liquor was found by officers in a "trick seat" in the auto which was stored in a garage behind the apartment of the blinking lights, where Glassman lives.

SWIMMING POOL TO BE DISCUSSED THURSDAY EVENING

Bringing the old swimming hole into the safety zone, is the task cut out for itself by the Xenia Community Recreation, according to City Auditor T. H. Zell, secretary, who is inviting people to attend the meeting at City Hall Thursday night, to perfect this year's organization.

The association will make a strong bid to provide Xenia City with a swimming pool for youngsters, if possible located in a small park with room for tennis courts and possibly a baseball diamond. In the belief that the swimming pool will offer the most popular appeal to citizens, the association will concentrate its efforts on that feature.

Plans for the proposed pool were outlined at a meeting recently, and in order to form a permanent organization to back this program, all organizations in the city are asked to send representatives to the meeting Thursday. A number of citizens have already offered to help finance the plan. It is said. Engineers have also made plans for a pool suitable for this city and have furnished cost estimates for the information of the workers. Several good locations are being considered.

The meeting Thursday will begin at 7:15 o'clock.

He's still raving. All about the gentle winds that blow from the South bearing odors of spices and fruits. Only this time it's another special perfume. The sketch shows the container—half an orange with each of its sections holding a different odor! See Mitzi's hat? Milan straw trimmed with ribbon loops.

What a lovely fat candle dripping little gobs of wax down its sides! The Goofy admires it in his near sighted fashion. (No, he does not wear that single eye-glass for effect.) Mitzi thinks it quite amusing that her slight efforts toward creating a springlike atmosphere should be so successful.

Good Heavens! Even the innocent looking little candle was a perfume bottle and has spilled its sweetness on the Goofy's suit. "Boastful stuff," he mutters, along with other words. Mitzi is annoyed—but then so is the Goofy who heads for a Turkish bath without stopping to say Goodbye.

PREACHES GOSPEL OF FOREST PRESERVATION IN WALKING TRIP ACROSS THE COUNTRY

Preaching the gospel of forest preservation and reforestation as well as fish and game protection, N. E. Kavanaugh, Columbus sportsman, is in Xenia on the first leg of a walking trip from Columbus to Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Kavanaugh is representing the League of Ohio Sportsmen and also the Ohio Sportsman, a monthly magazine devoted to sporting and outdoor interests, for which he is writing articles while on his trip. He hopes to inspire an interest in the states he visits in the things for which the League of Ohio Sportsmen stands, with the hope of bringing about a similar national organization.

The pedestrian arrived here Saturday and was received by Karl Keller, Greene County Game Protector. He is armed with credentials from the League of Ohio Sportsmen, the Ohio Sportsman Magazine and from the Mayor of Columbus and since leaving that city a week ago Sunday has been entertained in Washington, C. H., and other places.

"Arbor Day should be made compulsory day," said Mr. Kavanaugh. "Nothing can be accomplished until the country at large undertakes a nation-wide campaign of reforestation. Unless something of that nature is done, all our forests will be wiped out and with the passing of the forests, farms will become barren, droughts will follow, and famine will beset the nation."

"Continued drainage and continued clearing of forests will lead to an arid climate and barren soil. The proposed drainage in the Mississippi Valley will produce sand dunes rather than fertile soil. Trees draw the water, cause it to drop gently on the earth, and retain it in the ground to naturally irrigate and moisten the soil. If the trees are destroyed rains will be infrequent and what rainfall comes, will immediately flow away. In the old days forests in this section kept the winter moisture penned up to bring freshets to farms as late as July. Now the rain and snow disappears almost as fast as it falls."

Mr. Kavanaugh pointed out conditions in China, where he said destruction of the forests had resulted in an arid climate, poor farms and famine, being subjected to the devastations of alternating floods and droughts, sacrificing the fertile top soil. He also pointed out that it takes 7,500 acres of woodland to supply the paper for Sunday newspapers for one Sunday, and that in addition 11,549,000 acres were burned out last year.

Quoting Gifford Pinchot, he said: "In my judgment there will be a lumber famine in this country within twenty-five years and such a famine will make itself felt before the end of the twenty-fifth year period."

Planting of forests in a nation-wide drive to re-establish woodlands will avert such a catastrophe, according to Mr. Kavanaugh, and he is urging his hearers to write their congressmen, urging him to support all worthwhile forestry measures before congress and to prevent the proposed drainage of the Upper Mississippi.

European countries have already taken steps in this direction said Mr. Kavanaugh, pointing out the advantages of the Black Forest in France, and in his cross-country jaunt he hopes to educate the people of America to the necessity of like measures of forestry reproduction.

AMERICA HELPS EUROPE TO WIN THE PEACE

The Dawes and McKenna reports are now in the hands of the Reparation Commission and incidentally, before the Allied and German Governments to accept or reject. Of the two, it is, of course, the first thing that is of capital importance, representing, as it does, America's contribution toward the recovery of Europe.

The McKenna report, which deals with German capital abroad and its availability for reparation payments, simply states the estimated amounts—more than a billion and a half dollars—and suggests that there is no better method of attracting it back to Germany than the adoption of the plan outlined by the Dawes committee.

This plan is not presented for the benefit of one side or the other, nor is it designed primarily to help one Government against others. It is a blue print of a complicated piece of machinery that may be set up to take care of a huge financial problem growing out of the political situation made by the war. America, as leader in world finance, plays a part inevitable from the first, but long delayed by the exigencies of politics.

If Europe, by common consent of the nations involved, can take for granted the political status quo, the contemplated financial machinery can be put to work. If not, the political shakedown brought on by futile German resistance and divisions among the Allies must continue to a lower abyss of general demoralization.

The Dawes plan not only describes in full detail a piece of machinery that will produce German reparation payments for the Allies but also takes into account the raw material that must be fed into the hopper and the means of starting the machinery going.

The machinery is a gold bank in Germany, with sufficient capital to insure a German currency that can be used by the other nations—a currency that can be effectively converted into francs, pounds or dollars without loss. The material that will go into the hopper consists of interest bearing mortgages on German railways and industrial enterprises, pledges of revenues from certain other sources, such as customs, and ordinary taxes.

The payments that are made from any of these sources can be used by the Allied Governments either for buying German goods, for investment in Germany or by conversion, through the exchange market, into their own or other currency. Certain limits are put upon the manner of use, in the interest of economic and financial stability.

It is estimated that four years will elapse before the machinery is turning at maximum force. But even during this time payments will be possible, partly through a foreign loan to the gold bank.

DON'T LIKE "BLOCS"

Within the last few weeks Congress has forced two Cabinet officers into retirement. The circumstances attending the first change were not entirely agreeable to the President; that is, it was the will of Congress, not of the Executive, that was done. Moreover, the first two names suggested for counsel to the oil-lease suits were rejected by the Senate. The president had to find others.

Now let us see what will happen after March 4. The next President when he chooses his Cabinet cannot feel that as a matter of course his choices will be acted on favorably by the Senate. When he picks an Attorney General, a Secretary of the Interior, a Secretary of the Treasury and a Secretary of Labor he will have to ask himself. Will these men get by? And even when he thinks they will, perhaps they won't. That represents a profound change in the center of government. It may be temporary. But it will certainly last as long as the present bloc system endures.

TO RELIEVE SUFFERING

Nearly three hundred organizations engaged in social work in Philadelphia and its immediate vicinity began a three-day conference in Philadelphia for the second time in the city's history. Their conference is unique, in that there have thus been brought together for mutual exchange of experiences and for the co-ordination of effort workers of all races and religions in the common effort to relieve distress, shelter the homeless and to make life worth living for the million. "Social work" is a comprehensive term not easy to define, but the variety of subjects chosen for the discussions this week illustrates how far and wide and deep is the scope of the humanitarian endeavor in which these men and women are enlisted.—Public Ledger.

WHEN MOTHER GETS A LETTER

When Mother's had a letter, then her eyes begin to twinkle
And the joy of hearing from him seems to banish every wrinkle,
I think if he could see her as she hurries for her glasses,
There would never be a morning when the gray-clad postman passes;
And I'm sure if he could hear her as she hums some cheerful ditty,
She would never be forgotten by the boy that's in the city.

It's no use to sit and tell her not to worry or be fearful,
When a mother's heart is lonely, then a mother's eyes are tearful
And a mother's mind is troubled, and she's constantly referring To the dangers of the city and the accidents occurring;
But the nights I find her smiling and she says she's feeling better,
And she laughs across the tea cups, then I know she's had a letter

From the pocket of her apron she pulls out his written pages
And exultantly she tells me that he's had a raise in wages.
Then she chuckles at his humor and the story of his labors,
And I know beyond a question that she's read it to the neighbors;
And we sit and talk it over, proud as lovers newly smitten,
Finding joy and satisfaction in each line our boy has written.

When Mother's had a letter, then the fears and doubts that grieve

And the thousand things she's dread- ing through the silence, seems to leave her.
Then I wish unto her chuckles some glad morning he could listen,
Or could see her smile returning and her eyes begin to glisten;
Could he know the joy it gives her, then he never would forget her
And she'd never have to wonder why she doesn't get a letter.

Kidney Stew: (requested by Mrs. W.) Cut two pounds of beef kidneys in small pieces, wash well, and put in a stew pan covered with boiling water; let boil for 15 minutes, then drain off the water and pour cold water over the kidneys to remove the strong taste. Put back in a saucepan, cover with either soup stock or canned consommé, season with one teaspoon of salt, a dash of pepper, a few whole cloves, two large onions peeled and chopped, a little lemon rind, a very little all-spice and a bit of bay leaf. Let boil till the kidneys are very tender, then thicken slightly with three tablespoons of flour rubbed to a paste in a little cold water. Serve hot.

Lemon Bread Pudding: (requested by "Constant Reader") Put into a bowl one-half cup of granulated sugar and stir into this the beaten yolks of four eggs, the grated rind of one lemon, and one quart of milk; mix thoroughly then add two cups of soft breadcrumbs; turn the mixture into a baking dish, and bake for 30 to 40 minutes in a quick oven. When done spread over the top a meringue made of the four egg-whites stiffly beaten and sweetened with two tablespoons of sugar and flavored with the juice of one-half lemon. Return dish to a moderate oven for a few minutes, till meringue has browned. Serve cold.

Red Kidney Beans with Spaghetti: Soak one cup of dried red kidney beans overnight in water to cover well, and in the morning drain and stew in water containing a pinch of soda; when tender, serve on a platter surrounded by spaghetti which you have separately cooked as follows: Boil one cupful of spaghetti, broken small, in boiling salted water till tender, then make a sauce to add to it. Sauce for the Spaghetti: Put two tablespoons of bacon fat in a saucepan and when melted add two tablespoons raw minced onion and let cook till the onion is softened, then stir in one tablespoon of flour, and one and one-half cups of tomato juice (from either canned, or freshly-stewed tomatoes) and let bubble up a moment till thickened before turning it over the cooked spaghetti. A few crisply-fried slices of bacon make a pretty and tempting garnish for this dish.

Scotch Short Bread: Rub the following ingredients together with the hands till well blended: Four cups of pantry flour, two cups of butter, three-fourths of a cup of powdered sugar and one-fourth teaspoon of ground nutmeg. Pack the mixture one-half inch deep in shallow pans lined with oiled paper and bake in a moderate oven till browned—about 30 minutes. Just before it is done, cut into squares.

Today's Talks

ON AND ON

I can find nothing in this life that is of itself easy, so long as it is worth while.

And I discover myself thinking the opposite today to what I thought yesterday. But I am not disturbed, for I am traveling—on and on. Yesterday I walked through a lonely valley. Today I am high on the hills and look down into the valley. And the valley looks different from a high place.

When you are low in the valley of your distresses, climb up and look down. Your troubles look very small and insignificant when you have risen above them.

Those who start out in life with much, usually end with little.

Only by working, thinking, believing, on and on, are we able to find happiness—in endurance. And only in this way are we able to surpass ourselves each day.

Stevenson once told his stepson: "I am not a man of unusual talent. I started out with very moderate abilities; my success has been due to my really remarkable industry—to developing what I had in me to the extreme limit. When a man begins to sharpen one faculty, and keeps sharpening it with tireless perseverance, he can achieve wonders. Everybody knows it; it's a commonplace and yet how rare it is to find anybody doing it—I mean to the uttermost as I did. What genius I had was for work!"

He who scatters gets nowhere. But he who concentrates—even on a simple task, and does it better than it has ever been done before—is sure to excel many and surpass a large number.

We need to think about these simple, every day, easily forgotten truths. So many want quick money, easy wealth, high salaries, without working for them—or, rather, without working and waiting until they come from long patience and labor.

"What genius I had," said Stevenson, "was for work!"

The best is the most economical. JAP ROSE SOAP for shampooing is a striking example of this fact. Profuse, cleansing lather that rinses easily and leaves no sediment. Jap Rose makes the hair soft.—Adv. 105

"My Rheumatism is gone—"

There's glorious joy in knowing this—that more Red-Blood-Cells stops Rheumatism, and that S.S.S. builds Blood-Cells!

"There are thousands of you men and women, just like myself, slaves to rheumatism, muscle pains, joint pains, and horrible stiffness. I had the wrong idea about rheumatism for 15 years. I didn't realize that increasing blood-cells had the effect of completely knocking out rheumatic impurities from the system. That is why I began using S. S. S. Say what you will, I never knew such startling results were possible. Well, folks, besides knocking out my rheumatism it gave me back some of the strength I used to have way back! I've got a better color in my face, my appetite is dandy. I don't use my crutches any more. I'm walking around straight-up on two young legs!" S. S. S. makes people talk about themselves the way it builds up their strength. By building blood-cells it builds nerve strength for young folks who ought to have more, and for older people who have little. It stops pimples, boils, blackheads, eczema, chases away blood impurities. You can always rely on it. Start S. S. S. today for that rheumatism. You'll feel the difference shortly. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

IMMIGRATION BILL DESIGNED TO AID RACE IS BELIEF

Washington, April 14.—The immigration bill, which passed the house carrying a Japanese exclusion amendment "is designed for the solidarity of the white race," Representative Johnson, Republican of Washington, its author declared today in a statement striking back at Japanese Ambassador Hanhara, who warned Secretary of State Hughes that "grave consequences" might follow the enactment of the exclusion provision.

"The bill is now a matter of legislation, and neither threats, appeals or activities of the commercial organizations or foreign agents should affect the result," Johnson said.

Washington, April 14.—Even more drastic restricts of immigration than is proposed in either the Reed or Johnson bills now pending in congress was decided upon today by a conference of Republican senators called to determine party policy.

A majority of 41 senators attending the conference voted in favor of a bill that would limit immigration to one per cent quotas, based upon the census of 1910. The Reed bill proposed two per cent on the 1920 census, and the Johnson bill two percent on the 1890 census.

WILLIS IS IN LINE FOR CHAIRMAN OF G. O. P. CONVENTION

Washington, April 14.—The two leading candidates for the temporary chairmanship of the Republican national convention at Cleveland, are two Ohioans — Representative Nicholas Longworth, Republican leader of the house, and Senator Frank B. Willis, who nominated the late President Harding in 1920, it was learned at the White House today.

Other names are also being considered by President Coolidge but it is not unlikely that either Willis or Longworth will ultimately be selected, it was said.

Ravena, April 14.—C. E. Duncan, 57, died here today at a hospital, following an accident Saturday south of here. O. E. Simon, of Alliance, was riding with Duncan when the machine plunged through the railing of the B. and O. bridge. Simon is held on a charge of intoxication.

GERMANY WILLING TO ACCEPT REPORT

London, April 14.—Germany will send a brief note of conditional acceptance of the Dawes report to the Inter-Allied Reparations Commission Thursday instead of sending delegates according to a report in diplomatic circles today.

It was understood the note will say Germany is willing to accept the Dawes report as a basis of negotiation providing the Allies do likewise.

LIVE STOCKS

New York, April 14.—Weakness characterized forenoon trading on the stock exchange today. A feature was the pronounced weakness in Baldwin, that stock yielding about 4 points to below 110, the lowest price reached since 1922.

Independent steels, sugars, motors and accessories bore the brunt of the selling wave, new lows being reached in numerous instances. Crucible lost 1 1/2 to 1 1/2; U. S. Steel 3/8 to 96 1/8; and Amn. Beet Sugar one point to 38. Studebaker rose 1/2 to 84 1/2, while Stewart-Warner was 2 points off at 70 1/4. Oils also were under pronounced pressure, Marland Oil yielding 1 point to 35 3/4; Pac. Oil 1/4 to 48 3/4 and Cosden 2 points to 33 5/8.

With the exception of Union Pacific which lost over 2 points to 127 7/8 and Canadian Pac. 1 1/4 to 144 3/4, rails held fairly steady.

SERVICE RENDERED AMONG CRIPPLES OF GREENE COUNTY

In response to inquiries concerning the work among cripples and unfortunate children in Greene County, H. J. Aultman, county superintendent of schools, said that Rotary, Kiwanis, Shrine, and other organizations have been doing a great service, in furnishing treatment for local cases. He pointed out that school officials may participate in the following manner:

A local board of education may establish a special class for crippled children who cannot comfortably and safely be educated in the regular grades. There must be eight children to establish such a school. (All cost for such a school, including transportation, over the cost of educating these children in the grades is paid by the State Department of Education.)

In case a child is so crippled that he is unable to walk to school, the board of education of the district in which he resides shall provide transportation.

In order to assure attendance at a special school for crippled children, a crippled child may be boarded in a community which maintains such a school.

If a child is unable to attend school even with the aid of transportation, instruction in the home may be provided.

A local board of education may establish a special class for children having one-third or less vision. Totally blind children are also eligible to such a class. There must be a minimum of eight children.

In case a child lives in a district which does not maintain such a class, he may be sent to a class in another district. The Department of Education reimburses for board for such a child, also.

A local board of education may establish a special class for deaf and semi-deaf. There should be eight children to start such a class.

In case a child is not able to do regular grade work because of partial deafness, the Department of Education will approve a tutor for additional time. This service is not available for communities maintaining special classes for the deaf, but is used to take care of the isolated cases in rural communities.

The excess cost of every type of instruction is paid by the State Department of Education.

This aid is available for children of normal mentality. If their mental condition is doubtful, they may be given two or three months' trial in special instruction in order to test their mentality.

for a day to be set aside "and consecrated to the planting of trees."

Arbor Day has now become an annual custom in most communities. Many Juniors thus participate in the preservation of the beauty of their school and park grounds.

April 22-28 has been set aside as the week for the disseminating of tree information. Schools are asked to participate and to instruct pupils in the three large factors of forestry waste—forest fires, methods of cutting which destroys or prevents new timber growth, and failure to properly use all timber resources. The hopeful aspect is that there are four hundred and sixty-three million acres in the United States not required for other economic use that would amply supply all necessary timber. The propaganda to be spread is that concerted effort will stop the devastation of our remaining forests.

FOUR ARE INJURED WHEN AUTOMOBILE IS THROWN IN DITCH

Four Xenia people were injured when the new Oldsmobile touring car in which they were riding was struck by a passing Ford touring car and turned over in a ditch on the Washington Pike, two miles east of Jamestown Sunday afternoon.

The injured are Halle Hill, of 151 Hill Street, who received two deep cuts on the right knee, Millard and Albert Burrell, 428 North Gallows Street, and Claire Garwood, 703 North King Street, who received minor bumps and bruises. Albert Burrell is also suffering from a sprained back.

The woman driving the other machine did not stop after the accident, but witnesses got the number of her machine. The Xenians were driving east along the pike at a slow rate of speed and had pulled over to the side of the road to permit the Ford car to pass in the same direction.

In passing, the smaller car struck the left front hub cap of the Xenia machine, causing Millard Burrell, who was driving to lose control, and forcing the machine in the ditch, where it turned over. The four occupants were able to extricate themselves and Hill went to a nearby farmhouse, Elmer Huston, Xenia brought him to Jamestown, where a physician took two stitches in one cut and nine stitches in another, both on the knee. John Finley, Xenia, brought him to this city.

The machine was driven home under its own power after it was righted. The top was destroyed and the two front fenders and radiator damaged. The car is the property of Millard and Albert Burrell.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Evil Shepherd

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

The hand slipped from Francis' shoulder. Francis, with a smile, held out his own. They stood there for a moment with clasped hands—a queer, detached moment, as if seemed to Francis, in a life which during the last few months had been full of vivid sensations. From outside, came the lazy sounds of the drowsy summer morning—the distant humming of a mowing machine, the drone of a reaper in the field beyond, the twittering of birds in the trees, even the soft lapping of the stream against the stone steps. The man whose hand he was holding seemed to Francis to have become somehow transformed. It was as though he had dropped a mask and were showing a more human, a more kindly self. Francis wondered no longer at the halting gait of the horses in the field.

"You'll be good to Margaret?" Sir Timothy begged. "She's had a wretched time."

Francis smiled confidently. "I'm going to make up for it, sir," he promised. "And this South American trip," he continued, as they turned toward the French windows, "you'll call that off?"

Sir Timothy hesitated. "I am not quite sure."

When they reached the garden, Lady Cynthia was alone. She scarcely glanced at Francis. Her eyes were anxiously fixed upon his companion.

"Margaret has gone in to make the cocktails herself," she explained. "We have both sworn off absinthe for the rest of our lives, and we know Hedges can't be trusted to make one without."

"I'll go and help her," Francis declared.

Lady Cynthia passed her arm through Sir Timothy's.

"I want to know about South America," she begged. "The sight of those trunks worries me."

Sir Timothy's casual reply was obviously a subterfuge. They crossed the lawn and the rustic bridge, almost in silence, passing underneath the pergola of roses to the sheltered garden at the further end. Then Lady Cynthia paused.

"You are not going to South America," she pleaded, "alone?"

Sir Timothy took her hands.

"My dear," he said, "listen, please, to my confession. I am a fraud. I am not a purveyor of new sensations for a decadent troop of weary, fashionable people. I am a fraud sometimes even to myself. I have had good luck in material things. I have had bad luck in the precious, the sentimental side of life. It has made something of an artificial character of me, on the surface at any rate. I am really a simple, elderly man who loves fresh air, clean, honest things, games, and a healthy life. I have no ambitions except those connected with sport. I don't even want to climb to the topmost niches in the world of finance. I think you have looked at me through the wrong-colored spectacles. You have had a whimsical fancy for a character which does not exist."

"What I have seen," Lady Cynthia answered, "I have seen through no spectacles at all—with my own eyes. But what I have seen, even, does not count. There is something else."

"I am within a few weeks of my fiftieth birthday," Sir Timothy reminded her, "and you, I believe, are twenty-nine."

"My dear man," Lady Cynthia assured him fervently, "you are the only person in the world who can keep me from feeling forty-nine."

"And your people—"

"Heavens! My people, for the first time in their lives, will count me a brilliant success," Lady Cynthia declared. "You'll probably have to lend me money, and I shall be looked upon as the fairy child who has restored the family fortunes."

Sir Timothy leaned a little toward her.

"Last of all," he said, and this time his voice was not quite so steady, "are you really sure that you care for me, dear, because I have loved you so long, and I have wanted love so badly, and it is so hard to believe—"

It was the moment, it seemed to her, for which she had prayed. She was in his arms, tired no longer, with all the splendid fire of life in her lovely eyes and throbbing pulses. Around them the bees were humming, and a soft summer breeze shook the roses and brought little wafts of perfume from the carnation bed.

"There is nothing in life," Lady Cynthia murmured brokenly, "so wonderful as this."

Francis and Margaret came out from the house, the former carrying a silver tray. They had spent a considerable time over their task, but Lady Cynthia and Sir Timothy were still absent. Hedges followed them, a little worried.

"Shall I ring the gong, madam?" he asked Margaret. "Cook has taken such pains with her omelette."

"I think you had better, Hedges," Margaret assented.

The gong rang out—and rang again. Presently Lady Cynthia and Sir Timothy appeared upon the bridge and crossed the lawn. They were walking a little apart. Lady Cynthia was looking down at some roses which she had gathered. Sir Timothy's unconcern seemed a trifle overdone. Margaret laughed very softly.

"A stepmother, Francis!" she whispered. "Just fancy Cynthia as a stepmother!"

Andreas Lang, Sr., Anton Lang, the Christus, and Guido Mayr, three of the principals in the Oberammergau Passion Play, were pictured as they were leaving the White House in Washington. Their visit to President Coolidge is said to have been cut short when Ludwig Nissen, of New York, their introducer, is declared to have made an appeal in his presentation, suggesting intervention for Germany by the President. This appeal is said to have offended Mr. Coolidge because of its violation of international custom against presenting appeals by private citizens to the head of the Government.
